

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
NORTHERN DISTRICT OF WEST VIRGINIA
MARTINSBURG

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,

Plaintiff,

v.

CRIMINAL NO. 3:09-CR-91
(Judge Bailey)

JACKIE ROBINSON,

Defendant.

ORDER GRANTING DEFENDANT'S MOTION TO REDUCE SENTENCE

Currently pending before this Court is Defendant Jackie Robinson's Motion to Reduce Sentence and to Waive Resentencing Hearing [Doc. 64], which was filed on October 15, 2012. Defendant Robinson respectfully requests a reduction from his previously imposed mandatory minimum sentence of 60 months. In light of Dorsey v. United States, 567 U.S. ____ (2012), the mandatory minimum sentence no longer applies to this defendant. Accordingly, this Court will now apply the advisory guideline range in imposing its sentence. This Court further notes the Government does not object to this reduction.

Defendant Robinson entered a plea of guilty to Count 2 of the Indictment (distribution of cocaine base). On the 25th day of January, 2011, after reviewing the Presentence Investigation Report, this Court found a base level offense of 22, minus two (2) levels for acceptance of responsibility, and minus one (1) additional level based on the Government's motion, resulting in a total offense level of 19. With a criminal history category III, the guidelines would have provided a range of 37-46 months incarceration. The drug weight for Count 2, to which defendant Robinson pled, was 10.6 grams of cocaine base. Prior to the recent June 21, 2012, Supreme Court of the United States' Dorsey decision, 567 U.S. ____ (2012), the 5-year statutory mandatory minimum was triggered by a conviction for possessing with intent to distribute five (5) or more grams of cocaine base. Accordingly, this Court sentenced defendant Robinson to the 5-year mandatory minimum.

The Dorsey opinion has changed the rules. In light of Dorsey, a defendant like Robinson who committed the relevant crime prior to August 3, 2010, but was sentenced after August 3, 2010, is not subjected to the harsher mandatory minimum which the Fair Sentencing Act aimed to reduce. Under the Fair Sentencing Act, the 5-year mandatory minimum is now triggered by a conviction for possessing with intent to distribute 28 or more grams of cocaine base.

Defendant Robinson' motion is well taken. The crime for which he was sentenced took place on or about September 15, 2008, and he was sentenced to the 5-year mandatory minimum on January 25, 2011. Defendant Robinson therefore represents the quintessential defendant whose disparity the Supreme Court sought to redress.

As stated above, with a criminal history category III, the guidelines provide a range of 37-46 months incarceration. Accordingly, now that this Court is no longer bound by the 5-year mandatory minimum, this Court will reduce the defendant's sentence to thirty-seven (37) months. All other provisions of the original sentence shall remain in effect. Accordingly, Defendant Jackie Robinson' Motion to Reduce Sentence and to Waive Resentencing Hearing [Doc. 64] is GRANTED. The United States Probation Office is DIRECTED to prepare an Amended Judgment and Commitment Order reflecting the above.

It is so ORDERED.

The Clerk is directed to transmit copies of this Order to all counsel of record herein and to the United States Probation Office.

DATED: October 15, 2012.
